

THE BIBLE VIEW

In This Issue:

Pillars of Faith

Jumping into Father's Arms

Everything's Alright in My Father's House

Dead Faith

Unsubscribe

Volume: 640 January 25, 2018

Pillars of Faith

Bill Brinkworth

As Moses led the people of Israel away from their bondage in Egypt and to the land God had promised them, they were not alone. God escorted them. He manifested Himself by a pillar of cloud by day. At night, He made His presence known as a pillar of fire.

“And the LORD went before them by day in a pillar of a cloud, to lead them the way; and by night in a pillar of fire, to give them light; to go by day and night: 22 He took not away the pillar of the cloud by day, nor the pillar of fire by night, from before the people.” Exodus 13:21-22

That column was the visible presence of God for the people. It gave them guidance as they traveled during the day, and became a light for them at night for their comfort and security. God was always with them, and they saw it.

After the people of Israel had constructed the first “church” in the wilderness, called the Tabernacle, it was God’s glory that filled the place of worship (Ex. 40:35). Even Moses had to leave the Tabernacle, when God’s holy presence was in that place.

When the column of cloud, moved away from the Tabernacle, the people broke camp, disassembled the Tabernacle and followed it. God physically led them through the wilderness (Ex. 40:36). They knew God was close at hand. He led, and provided for their needs.

Today, there is no longer a need of the Tabernacle, as the born-again (John 3:3) believer is where the Spirit of God dwells (I Cor. 3:16, II Cor. 6:16). There is no longer a need to have priests intercede for us before the Father as was done in the Tabernacle. Jesus is our High Priest (Heb. 3:1, 4:14, 6:20). We are also clearly commanded not to follow by sight, but to live by faith. Following by sight is even displeasing to God (Heb. 10:38)

“But without faith it is impossible to please him: for he that cometh to God must believe that he is, and that he is a rewarder of them that diligently seek him.” Heb. 11:6

“For therein is the righteousness of God revealed from faith to faith: as it is written, The just shall live by faith.” Rom. 1:17 Also: Gal. 3:11, Heb. 10:38.

Faith today is not as empty and imagination-led as some misunderstand it to be. There are physical and many times tangible proofs of faith. Some of the verifications that God is leading the Christian can be found:

- In the believer’s spiritual “heart”. Sins and actions that never troubled a person in the past, now concern a person after being saved. The convictions from the indwelling Holy Spirit have a controlling and leading ability in a Christian’s life, when God’s commandments are followed. Although a redirection in one's life to follow God's guidance is often difficult and slow in showing changes, the transformation in countless lives is proof.

Not heeding the convicting Spirit will often rob a believer of peace, and an uneasiness will quite often cause the believer to repent of a wrong-doing and alter a course more pleasing to the Lord. Although an audible voice is not heard, guilt and shame from breaking God's commandments are very powerful deterrents to committing sin and help create a life pleasing to the Lord.

- In God's Word. Although God's column of cloud and fire are no longer present, all God's directions are preserved in His Word. In the Bible are God's commands on how to live, how to know for sure that you will go to Heaven, what not to do, how to get closer to Him, how to get along with others, how to rear children, whom to marry and to associate with, how not to ruin one's life, and thousands more specific directions for the believer to follow. Often, they are not explicit commands, but they are usually timeless, wise principles that direct all generations.
- In the believer's changes. The steps of obedience result in changes in a life that only God can make. Modern "science" and medicine try to change a person from the outside. A born-again, obedient child of God is changed from the inside; and the "outside" often shows permanent changes.

Violent lives have been exchanged for one that is calm and at peace with himself and others. Alcohol or drug dependent lives have been swapped for ones that no longer require stimuli. Non-productive lives have been converted to ones that makes positive changes in one's life and others around him. Terrible parents have been corrected to being those that faithfully and lovingly raise their families. The number of lives that have been changed by letting God's Word guide and direct their lives is countless.

To a disobedient, unsaved person, obeying God's commandments does not make much sense. Much of the time, what the Bible says to do seems contrary to what the world has taught will make a successful, happy life. However, if one makes the step of faith to totally trust God and let Him lead, it will alter lives.

Any step of faith is blind, but after countless proofs, His guidance is as real as the column of cloud by day and column of fire by night! Who are you going to believe? Are you going to believe man's recommendations that have proven to be unsuccessful most of the time and are constantly changing, or are you going to believe God's wisdom that has successfully raised trillions of believers?

“Faith is kept alive in us, and gathers strength, more from practice than from speculations.” — Addison

Jumping into Father's Arms

D. L. Moody

It was a beautiful evening, and just before the meeting some neighbors and myself were sitting on the front piazza enjoying the evening. One of the neighbors put one of his children upon a ledge eight feet high, and put out his hands and told him to jump. Without the slightest hesitation the child sprang into his father's arms. Another child was lifted up, and he, too, readily sprang into the arms of his father. He picked up another boy, larger than the others, and held out his arms, but he wouldn't jump. He cried and screamed to be taken down. The man begged the boy to jump, but it was of no use. The lad couldn't be induced to jump.

The incident made me curious, and I stepped up to him and asked, "How was it that those two little fellows jumped so readily into your arms, and the other boy wouldn't?"

"Why," said the man, "those two boys are my children, and the other boy isn't. He doesn't know me." And so this is why so many will not follow God's commands; God is not their spiritual "Father".

"Part-time faith, like part-time jobs, can't support you!"

Everything's Alright in My Father's House

Author Unknown

Dr. Wilbert White told of a little boy who was put to bed one evening. Shortly afterward, a thunderstorm came, and the mother crept up the stairs to see if he was asleep. She paused at the door, as a mild clap of thunder came.

She was amazed to hear her boy cry, "Louder, God, louder than that!" In a moment another terrific clap came. The startled mother heard her boy exclaim, "Attaboy!"

Can we say that boy was irreverent? No! We can say that he had peace God was in control. He trusted God. He felt the presence of God in the storm, and he talked with Him. The little boy knew no harm would come to him under the care of His watchful Lord.

"It is not faith and works; it is not faith or works; it is faith that works." — Anonymous

Dead Faith

T. H. Milner

The Word of God tells distinctly what sort of faith dead faith is:

"Even so faith, if it hath not works, is dead, being alone."
James 2:17

"But wilt thou know, O vain man, that faith without works is dead?" James 2:20

"For as the body without the spirit is dead, so faith without works is dead also." James 2:26

That which is dead is inactive, inoperative, unproductive, and fruitless. If then, your faith is not producing spiritual fruits, trusting Him for all, and regularly pointing others to God, there is no doubt that your faith is dead or quickly heading that way.

“One does not believe, who does not live the belief!”